Publications and Working Papers

The impact of COVID-19 pandemic on emerging country stock markets: evidence of the value effect, with Yang Yang and Jialing Jiang, Emerging Markets Finance and Trade, 58.1 (2022): 70-81. [\[Link\]](#) [\[PDF\]](#)

- Methods: Portfolio analysis, Fama-MacBeth regression
- Findings: The value premia in seven emerging markets exhibited significant differences before and during the pandemic, with heterogeneous responses to the pandemic observed.

The Belt and Road Initiative and Stock Market Comovement, with Yezhou Sha, R&R at The Economic Research Journal, in Chinese

- Methods: Causal inference (Staggered DiD)
- Findings: Stock return synchronicity increased after a country joined the "Belt and Road Initiative" among 83 economies. This increase was more pronounced in countries characterized by low levels of economic and financial development, as well as a lower Human Development Index and Gender Development Index.

Board reforms and corporate innovation: international evidence, with Cheng Yan (work in progress)

- Methods: Causal inference (Staggered DiD)
- Findings: The initiation of board reforms across 41 countries from 1990 to 2016 led to an increase in both the quantity and quality of corporate innovation.

Research Experience

Research Assistant to Professor Yezhou Sha

September 2022 - Present

National Natural Science Foundation(NSFC) project: Style drift and mutual fund performance persistency: A time-varying asset pricing perspective.

- Participated in the proposal writing process as the primary student contributor and organized biweekly paper discussion sessions, guiding fellow students in the study of top-tier literature.
- Gathered and consolidated data from several databases, including CSMAR and RESSET (two prominent databases in China), and conducted data analysis using Stata.
- Collaborated in quantifying mutual fund's style drift by adopting a Holding-Based Security Analysis-Style Drift Method (HBSA-SD), resulting in project submissions to a top-tier Chinese journal.

Project Leader to Graduate Innovation Training Program

December 2022 - Present

Project: The Belt and Road Initiative and financial market integration.

- Authored a research proposal independently, utilizing tools such as PPT and ProcessOn, to construct research frameworks and create Gantt charts for project scheduling.
- Developed research procedures encompassing research question formulation, data acquisition, data cleaning, variable construction, and research methodologies within the project.

- Gathered diverse datasets from various sources, including the Belt and Road Initiative website, WRDS (Compustat, CRSP, BvD Orbis), WDI, and WGI, and performed regression analyses utilizing Stata.
- Secured research funding totaling $1,000, authored and submitted a working paper to a top-tier Chinese journal.

Member of Interviewer Department in China Household Finance Survey (CHFS) July 2019 - August 2019

- Conducted in-person data acquisition through interviews with household heads, encompassing various facets such as household assets and liabilities, income and expenditures, and employment status, among others.
- Collaborated with a team of 5 members to conduct field visits to 3 districts and 5 communities, during which we amassed more than 130 interview questionnaires and accrued over 400 hours of interview time.
- Gathered data as a contributor to the CHFS database (one of the most authoritative databases for Chinese household finance research).
